3 candidates fined for not filing their finance reports

Three candidates for the Macomb County Board of Commissioners were fined for not filing campaign finance reports by Friday's deadline.

The candidates are: Democrat William Shoemaker, who is running for the 22nd District seat; Republican Linda Marsack, who is running for the 26th District seat; and Democrat Thomas Kiernicki, one of nine Democrats vying to replace retiring Commissioner Bobby Hill in the 17th District. Kiernicki turned in his report Monday.

The fines are based on how much the candidates raised.

Macomb County Clerk Carmella Sabaugh said this is the fewest number of candidates to file late reports to the county. The reports show how much candidates raised and how they spent it.
